

CCM Committee Highlights

Your 2009 CCM Committee is actively looking for ways to serve the membership this year, and has put together a Certified Construction Manager Standards of Practice course to be held in Irvine January 29-31, 2009. As part of our arrangement with CMAA National, a certification test will be offered within one week of this course, so this is a great time to get certified. Set yourself apart from the competition by demonstrating your construction management expertise. Please look for upcoming announcements, but be sure to book your space soon, as there are limited seats available.

The CCM Committee is also ready to explain the benefits of certification to your company or project group. We have a short presentation that hits the important points, and are ready to support you in your endeavors to gain the CCM certification. Please contact the committee and we will be happy to meet with any size group.

This year's goals include Application Workshops to help you get your application ready, the CCM Presentation described above, and educational sessions focused on the core roles that construction managers perform (Project Management, Cost Management, Time Management, Quality Management, Contract Administration, Safety Management).
